GENERAL NEWS.

Grant to Retire from the World's Fair Commission.

NAUGHTY NEBRASKA SCHOOLMARM.

The Southern Pacific Route Open for Travel—the Telegraph Case, etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, March 18.—The World says: General Grant when asked as to a report that he had resigned the presidency of the world's fair commission, said: I have not sent in my resignation yet. Is it true that you intend to? was asked. General Grant said: I think there should be a gentleman at the head of the commission who can give it ample time and attention. I shall soon leave the country to be absent for an indefinite period, and this fact and suggestion I shall lay before the commission before next Monday, so that they may act accordingly. That is all I can say at present.

Grant Growls at the Interviewers.

The morning papers agree in believing that Grant will resign the presidency of the world's fair. A Herald reporter who caught an interview last evening found him considerably annoyed at the persistency of callers. He said that he thought it strange that one could not come to New York for a few days without being overrun with interviewers. He said that he would not have anything to do with the fair for the present as he was going to Mexico on Tuesday next.

The Opium Clause.

The Sun says: There are western politicians and editors who take exception even to the slight concession made to China in the opium clause of the new treaty, which prohibits citizens of the United States from engaging in the opium traffic through Chinese ports. Their argument is that it is an injury to the property and business of American citizens to prohibit their taking part in the opium trade and that this ought not to be acceded to in return for a limitation of Chinese immigration. For the main point of this there happens to be no foundation, for the opium imported into the United States for medical purposes comes from India, not Chinese ports, and that imported in China passes chiefly through the hands of British subjects, chiefly under the protection of English arms. Few or no Americans are engaged in the trade. Lastly, so much of the drug as is brought to the United States for smoking is imported wholly by Chinese firms.

Socialist Resolutions.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The following was adopted at a socialist meeting to-night:

All people have the holy right to protect their liberties by any means, and

WHEREAS, now war has broken out between the most noble elements of Russian society and despotism, and

WHEREAS, under the government of Alexander more blood was shed and more misery brought upon subjects than under all former czars. Therefore be it

Resolved, That although we consider assassination as impracticable, nevertheless we consider under a government of such fearful tyranny as that of the Russian empire it is the only means that can be used, and therefore we consider the deed of the Russian people not to be assassination but execution and we are to this act a terrible lesson to all tyrants.

Gould Resting on his Oars.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Graphic says: Gould is doing very little in the stock market at present, as he proposes a trip to Florida for a brief breathing spell.

More Expert Testimony.

Expert Hogan testified to-day that the person who wrote form 27 did not write the note of warning.

Another Phase of the Telegraph Case.

The arbitrators appointed to value the American Telegraph Company award the Central Construction Company $10,000,000 in stock and $5,000,000 in bonds. About one half this was paid previous to consolidation. Subsequently the Western Union Company issued new stock for the balance and yesterday the Central Construction Company divided it up among its stockholders, who are identical with the principal stockholders of the American Union Company, namely, Gould and party. None of the injunction proceedings were taken any account of. With the payment of this indebtedness to the Construction Company, the telegraph people say it was never contemplated to interfere, but Hatton Hatch when spoken to characterized the issuance of new stock as a trick to evade the injunction in part and said that in his opinion the orders of the court have been disregarded. In response to the inquiry as to what he proposed to do about it, he would only answer that he was not through with them yet.

Moneyed Kings Going Abroad.

NEW YORK, March 18.—W. H. Vanderbilt sails for Europe April 13th, and James R. Keene is going abroad during the latter part of the same month. This is considered as an indication that the market will not feel the influence of their support for some time.

Complimentary Dinner to Hannibal Hamlin.

BANGOR, ME., March 17.—A most brilliant complimentary reception was given here this evening to ex-Senator Hannibal Hamlin. Congratulatory telegrams were received from Secretaries Blaine, Windom and Lincoln, Senators Conkling, Bayard, Anthony, Hale, Frye and Pendleton, and many other distinguished people.

Sympathy and Promises for the Irish.

DES MOINES, March 18.—The state land league convention to-day called resolutions of sympathy and promising support to Parnell and his co-adjutors.

Death of a Denver Pioneer.

DENVER, March 17.—[illegible] Whitsitt, an old settler and capitalist, died suddenly this evening of heart disease.

Indian Massacre.

SANTA FE, March 17.—Indians made a raid on a wagon train near Puerto D'Chocolat, New Mexico, to-day, and killed 30 men and burned their wagons. Further particulars are not obtainable at present.

Brutal Outrage.

FORT WORTH, Texas, March 16.—Frank Varner, a negro, after terribly choking, beating and gagging Laura Edison, a handsome and quite accomplished young lady, living two miles from this city, brutally outraged her and fled, but was pursued by friends of the lady, captured and lodged in jail. He will probably be lynched.

A Schoolmarm Elopes with a Pupil.

OMAHA, March 18.—A decided sensation has been created here by the announcement of the elopement of Miss Ellen M. Stratton, a teacher in the central public school, with Charles Duke, her favorite pupil. She is about 33 years old and he is not yet 18. She has always been regarded as a fine teacher and an accomplished lady. The boy is a son of E. T. Duke, a prominent hardware merchant. Young Duke has for some time past been in the habit of visiting her at her rooms of evenings to take extra tuition in his studies, so it is claimed, and the result was that they fell in love to such an extent that the elopement seemed to them to be necessary. Miss Stratton has within the past three or four weeks been preparing for this event by borrowing several hundred dollars from her sister teachers, in sums ranging from $25 to $100. She also left unpaid several large-sized store bills, a board bill, etc., and her creditors today endeavored to find something to attach, but nothing could be found of great value. Miss Stratton was well known here and no one would have suspected anything of the kind from her. The couple have gone to Chicago.

Explosion on the Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, March 18.—The towboat John Means exploded her boilers last evening, 90 miles up the river, and sunk immediately. She carried a crew of 35 men, four of whom, John S. Eals, pilot; a deckhand named Morris, and two firemen, Germans, are missing, supposed to be drowned. Chas. Purcell, the pilot on watch, was blown into the river and had a leg broken. Tom Cannon, deckhand, had his skull fractured. Wm. R. Wooldridge, 2d cook, was scalded on the neck and legs, and Capt. McClellan also slightly bruised on the head. When the boat sunk, five barges loaded with railroad iron and block tin which she was towing, floated down the river. Capt. McClellan and the wounded men were brought here this morning. The captain has returned to the scene with a tug to secure the barges.

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—The tow boat John Means, exploded her boilers and sunk at Osceola last night, was valued at $30,000 and insured for $10,000. The accident was the result of gross neglect.

The First Train.

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 17.—The first through train over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road for Deming, making connection with the Southern Pacific for San Francisco, left the Union depot to-night at 9:30. There were seven cars in the train, all crowded, and among the passengers were fourteen ticketed for San Francisco and points on the Southern Pacific. Capt. J. F. George, of this city, an old conductor on the Santa Fe, had the honor of taking out the first through train, while James Flynn, who has been running on the track for nineteen years, drove the engine. The train moved out of the depot amid the shouts of the crowd assembled to witness the opening of the great southern route to the Pacific.

A Base Crime.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—The jury this forenoon in a second hearing of the case, found Harry Hulz guilty of violating the person of a little girl a year ago. The sentence must be life imprisonment.

Mail Robbery.

CHICAGO, March 18.—A registered letter pouch was stolen from a mail car, which arrived this morning over the Cincinnati, Lafayette & Chicago railroad. Officials of the government and of the road are reticent about the matter, refusing to give particulars.

Suicide.

Theodore Wolf, aged 18, hung himself this morning in the attic of his house, 203 Division street.

The Last Indian Report.

Gen. Sheridan and officers of his staff thoroughly discredit the story from New Mexico, that the Apache Indians attacked a wagon train at Puerto del Cholate and massacred thirty people. No such intelligence has been received at military headquarters where it would naturally be known first, since the Indians make their raids from a point near Fort Cummings, from which post any hostile movement would be instantly telegraphed to Chicago.

Cannon Talks about the Utah Case.

CHEYENNE, March 18.—A Leader reporter to-day interviewed Cannon, Mormon delegate to congress. Cannon expressed confidence in ultimate victory over Campbell. He says that all lawyers and congressmen in Washington agree that he can't be kept out of the seat. An idea suggested that the next house being republican would keep him out, he said that he had more hope for support from a republican house because the republicans abhorred the principle upon which it was sought to unseat him. As to Gov. Murray's visit to Mentor several days before the inauguration and the announcement that Garfield endorsed Murray's action, Cannon said he had it from good authority that Garfield did not approve giving the certificate to Campbell.

A "Puff" for Wyoming Territory.

CHEYENNE, March 18.—The Leader, in a comprehensive article, shows that Wyoming is being rapidly developed and emigration pouring in. Silver and gold mines are being discovered in all the mountains, fine paying petroleum fields are being operated, and numerous soda lakes exist ready to supply all the glass factories of the country for a century, have just been purchased by glassmakers, via. will erect works. Farms in northern Wyoming are being rapidly taken up and new counties organized. Three new railroads will be built in the territory this year and building and other improvements progressing on all hands. The territory, which more than doubled its population in the last decade, will undoubtedly quadruple it in the present decade.

Treacherous Reds.

RAWLINS, March 18.—The latest and most reliable news from White river appears to point to an outbreak of Utes early in the spring. The Utes are located near White river about 25 miles from the military post. A son of Chief Douglas is reported as saying that as soon as Douglas returns to their camp and the snow goes off the Utes will begin fighting. They are procuring all the guns and ammunition possible, for which they exchange horses or anything else. The military have just completed a substantial blockhouse near the post.

LAS VEGAS, March 18.—Marcus Alba, the last of the murderers of Col. Potter, has been captured at Alamogordo and will probably be lynched.

A Bad Job at Hanging.

CHARLESTON, March 18.—James Black (colored) was hanged at Marion to-day for the murder of Eli Wilcox (colored). He had been reprieved twice. As the trap fell the rope broke and Black fell heavily to the ground, spitting blood and calling for water. Eighteen minutes later the trap was sprung a second time.

Sentenced to be Hanged.

Richard and Ben Jolen (colored) were convicted at Marion to-day of the murder of D. M. Herrell, in August last, and sentenced to be hanged June 3d.

Flood in the Savannah.

AUGUSTA, March 18.—The Savannah river is higher than at any time since 1865. It rose 24 feet in 12 hours. A portion of Augusta is flooded.

Another Arrest.

A man has been arrested who was habitually addressed by his accomplices as "My Lord." This appellation was given by Nihilists to Jelinbon, instigator of the plot to blow up the imperial train near Moscow. This man was arrested on the 17th. He appears to be one of the leaders of the Nihilists.

Cincinnati Whisky Quotation.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—Whisky quiet; $1 05.

THE INTERDICTED PORK.

Blaine Instructs Lowell and Noyes to Deny Crump's False Statements.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Ministers at the court of St. James and the French capital have been instructed to lay before their respective governments to which they are accredited the sense of this government, that injustice is shown toward citizens and food products of this country by the attitude which is being assumed in Europe on this question. Positive instructions have been sent to Lowell at London to meet Crump's statement and expose their erroneousness. Noyes at Paris has been telegraphed in the following terms, directing him to lay the facts before the French government:

WASHINGTON, March 16.

To Noyes, Minister, Paris: Your course respecting the pork decree of the French government is approved. The statements of Crump, acting British consul at Philadelphia, have occasioned excitement and widespread comment here, leading to a correspondence with the British legation and boards of trade. Hog cholera is confounded with trichinosis, which is an entirely distinct disease, but the representations regarding hog cholera are very greatly exaggerated. The most searching investigation fails to show a basis for the published statements of mortality. Among very young swine deaths from cholera have been less this year than for several years past, and the condition of full grown hogs, which are always used for packing and export, is this year exceptionally good. The British representative at Philadelphia has apparently been misled by designing speculators to great injury of the legitimate trade. Deny, in the strongest terms, the report of the British consul, since the French ministers appeal to it as justifying them in interdicting or restricting the American pork trade. Instructions follow.

BLAINE.

A Fair Demand.

From the Times: Several prominent provision merchants sent a dispatch to Secretary Blaine yesterday reading as follows: Cables from France this morning indicate that there is some impediment to allowing the entry of pork products shipped before their recent edicts were issued. We respectfully request you to cable the American minister at Paris to insist that all such shipments, contracts for which were dated prior to the edict, shall be duly received, as otherwise great hardship will accrue to shippers and the trade. Late to-night after the following reply was received:

WASHINGTON, March 18.

I have instructed our minister in France to the extent desired. JAMES G. BLAINE.

France is Fair.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Minister Noyes cables that the French government has agreed that all pork loaded upon ships before the passage of the French decree concerning pork imported from the United States, shall be admitted into France subject only to inspection and with as little delay as such examination permits.

Chicago's Hog Business for the Past Year.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Howard White & Co. give in their Commercial Bulletin to-day a detailed statement of packing operations in Chicago for twelve months ending March 1st. The exhibit is highly gratifying. The returns show increase, business both for summer and winter months; the aggregate being the very largest number of hogs ever packed in any city in the world in one year. The total number packed was 5,752,191, or an increase over the preceding twelve months of 4,071,6[illegible]. Of the whole number there were packed during the summer 2,071,117, and during the winter 2,730,8[illegible]. Although the supply has been so liberal, there has been a corresponding urgent demand for home consumption and foreign export. During the two months two leading houses have packed the enormous number of 2,376,499 hogs, an average of 198,000 per month. Their aggregate business exceeds that of any other city in the west, and their operations equal nearly one-seventh those of the entire west. Receipts of live hogs during the year were 7,059,355, and shipments 1,394,990.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

A Hint that Trouble is Brewing for Japan.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Late advices from Japan state that the relations between that country and China are strained, the latter retaliating for Japan's course in the Formosa and Loo Choo affairs, when China was in difficulty with Russia. It is believed in Yokohama that China made a secret treaty with Russia, directly concerning Japan. The second, or Tseng treaty, has also its secret agreement or compact relating to that country. Terms of settlement with Russia are given out with much ostentation, but well informed people regard those terms as materially qualified by subsidiary compacts, the terms of which are not now even hinted at. The attitude of Russia and the large fleet maintained by that power in Chinese and Japanese waters, are matters of increasing suspicion and anxiety. The hostile bearing of China will tax the resources of Japan to the utmost in defensive preparations, at a time when the financial difficulties of the nation are overwhelming and the entire specie reserve in the treasury is not more than 12,000,000 yen.

Tokio's Disastrous Fires.

The unprecedented number of large fires in Tokio this year has compelled the authorities to move in the matter. Orders have been given that all houses built on burnt places must be built of the same material as native "godowns." The last fire in Tokio passed over ten streets and consumed 1083 houses and 23 "godowns." The population rendered homeless by this calamity was 5392.

An "Invoice" of Celestials.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The City of Peking brought 990 Chinese passengers from Hongkong.

Death of James Adams.

At 10 o'clock last night James Adams, who was shot by Adolph Schander Monday night, breathed his last. At 10:20 Schander and James Oliver were booked for murder. About half an hour before Adams died he made a second statement of the shooting, which did not differ materially from his first one, except that he was more confident that he was going to die.

The Ownership of the Sutro Tunnel.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—A private letter received in this city says that John W. Mackay has bought out the interest of two Scotchmen who held large blocks of Sutro tunnel stock. This gives color to the story that the bonanza firm control the tunnel.

The First Train from the West.

The first overland train by the southern route left this city this morning under the charge of conductor Massie and engineer Littlejohn. Cars comprising the train were all new and of the finest construction.

Reduction in the Price of Syrup.

A reduction of 15 cents per gallon in the price of syrup, announced yesterday, was a surprise, but as the present rate means net cash, the reduction is not so large as it appears to be. Refiners are evidently bent on regulating the importation of sugar and syrup from New York.

Assessment.

Overman levies an assessment of 50c.

The Kalloch Trial.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—In the Kalloch trial today the defense has been backing up the character of its witnesses who were impeached by the prosecution.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Tunnel Work to be Commenced.

THE DALLES, March 17.—A scow and tunneling machinery were taken down the rapids below The Dalles by the Idaho to-day. Operations will be superintended by Construction Engineer L. A. Rix under the direction of Mr. Hallett.

Weather cloudy and cold.

J. T. Lady, of Sheridan, recently took a cartridge in his left hand, supposing it to be empty, and attempted to remove the cap, but it was loaded and it exploded. A piece of the shell struck him near the mouth, cutting an ugly gash reaching nearly to the ear, and another piece took off the end of one of his fingers. The ball—a large one—entered the palm of his hand near the center and passed through, lodging against the skin on the back, and was removed by the doctor cutting the skin and taking it from the back of the hand. The concussion crushed the whole palm of the hand to a jelly.

A man by the name of Burton, from Yamhill, who recently bought of Judge Stott a piece of land situated near Wapato lake in Washington county, has just discovered a valuable coal mine thereon. The strata is said to be 12 feet thick and the coal of the variety called cannel coal.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Stanley Matthews' Prospects for Confirmation.

AN EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS PROBABLE.

The Republicans Elect the Committees with the aid of Mahone and the Vice President, Etc., Etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, March 18.—[illegible] extra session of Congress is [illegible] during the past few days the movement to procure the issuance of a presidential call for one has evidently gained much strength. The question will probably come up for consideration at an early cabinet meeting, and the expectation that a decision will be made at that time. Meanwhile the arguments for and against the issuance of a call seem to be pretty equally divided, for although the general drift of republican sentiment in congress opposes an extra session, and although President Garfield has thus far been averse to issuing the proposed call, several of the strongest party leaders are asking for it, and Secretary Blaine has about concluded to exert his powerful influence in the same direction.

The cabinet to-day discussed the question of calling an extra session of congress. It is thought that an extra session will be called to meet between the 1st and 15th of May.

Stanley Matthews' Chances.

The prospects of a favorable report from the new judiciary committee on Stanley Matthews' nomination are not considered encouraging by his friends, for although Edmunds is absent and Thurman is no longer in position to oppose it, there is only one member of the committee, Lamar, who strongly favors his confirmation, and Bayard and Davis of Illinois will continue to exert their powerful influence in the committee to delay or defeat it outright, while Conkling, Logan and Ingalls are likely to regard it as a legacy of the Hayes administration, with very little favor, even if they do not range themselves actively with its opponents. The programme of Mr. Matthews' friends in the event of threatened delay in committee action, is to move to discharge the committee and bring the case before the senate for a direct vote; but on the whole they appear to have but little hope of success. The impression is abroad also, that President Garfield sent in this name only in pursuance of his general policy to renew all recent nominations made by Hayes which failed to receive action, and that he is really apathetic in regard to Matthews' confirmation.

The belief that an extra session will be called has gained such strength to-day that it is now almost universal. There is the highest authority for stating, however, that, although the chances certainly incline that way, the matter is not yet decided, and that the general expectations may yet very possibly be disappointed.

An Interesting Fact.

Gen. Benj. Lincoln was the first secretary of war. He was appointed in 1781. The last secretary of war is Robt. Lincoln appointed in 1881—just one hundred years difference between the dates of appointment. A picture of the first secretary hangs upon the walls of the department, and a picture of the present secretary will be placed along side of it. So far as is known there is no bond of relationship between the two secretarys.

Our Sympathy Appreciated.

The secretary of state has received from General Foster, United States minister at St. Petersburg, the following:

To Blaine, secretary at Washington: The minister for foreign affairs says that the emperor is profoundly touched by the expressions of sympathy of the president and senate of your country, for which the deceased emperor professed sincere esteem and earnest friendship. It is a legacy left to Emperor Alexander III, and which his majesty, in accord with the Russian nation, accepts from the depths of his heart. [illegible] FOSTER, Minister.

To be Taken to New York.

At the request of the family of Gen. Upton, who desired his remains to be brought east, Secretary Lincoln to-day authorized Gen. McDowell by telegraph to detail two officers from the division of the Pacific to accompany the remains to New York.

Negotiations in the Fishery Case.

Secretary Blaine took up the Fortune bay outrage where Evarts left off and for a few days has been conferring almost constantly with Lord Granville. As a result the latter proposes to leave the whole matter for decision to Secretary Blaine and Sir Edward Thornton. If they disagree they are to name a referee whose decision shall be accepted by the two governments as final. Our government is inclined to accept this proposition.

A Contest Probable.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The democrats [illegible] to resist all attempts to [illegible] the [illegible] action will [illegible] on Monday. Those [illegible] have been overruled. They say the present caucus [illegible] not prepared for sudden dismissal, and [illegible] believed that the democrats held the organization. The republicans expect and are prepared for a stubborn contest. Davis will not filibuster but all the rest of the democrats can take a stand for a few days. The republicans will probably concede the [illegible] for Monday.

Confirmations.

In executive session to-day the senate confirmed John W. Powell of Illinois director of the United States geological survey, vice Clarence King, resigned; Hiram Barber of Illinois receiver of public moneys at Mitchell, Dakota; George W. Jones of Ohio assistant paymaster in the army.

The Chinese Treaties.

In executive session to-day the Chinese treaties were taken from the table and referred to the newly appointed committee on foreign relations. They will undoubtedly be reported back with a favorable recommendation early next week. The committee now consists of Senators Burnside, Conkling, Edmunds, Miller, Ferry, Johnston, Gorman, Hill (Ga.), and Pendleton. Edmunds will be absent in Florida during the rest of the session and at least five remaining members will favor ratification of the treaties without amendment.

THE SENATE.

With the Deciding Vote of Vice President Arthur the Republicans Assume Control.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Frye took his seat.

Pendleton called up his organization resolution. Anthony, intending to offer another resolution, moved to postpone indefinitely. The vote resulted 17 to 37. Davis voted with the democrats, Mahone, to the astonishment of all, voted with the democrats at first, but changed his vote amid applause and hisses. Edmunds and Vance paired. The chair voted aye and declared the motion carried.

Saulsbury said that he rose not to object to the vote of the vice president, but to express the opinion that he had not power to decide in a question of this character. It was an assumption of power by the vice president, unwarranted by the constitution.

Logan said that the vice president merely followed precedents and quoted a similar case in 1873.

Anthony then offered a resolution reorganizing the committees on a republican basis; carried by the same vote, the vice president throwing the deciding vote.

Senate went into executive session and when the doors reopened adjourned till Monday.

Pacific Coast Representation Summarized.

[illegible] Miller [illegible] Farley is assigned to [illegible] Senator Jones, of Nevada, retains his position in the [illegible] committee [illegible] Slater remains on the Indian affairs committee [illegible] Teller becomes chairman of the pensions committee [illegible] chairmanship of the committee on agriculture. His other positions are on naval affairs, postoffices and post roads, and education and labor.

Senator Miller's Committee Assignment.

The revised committee lists prepared by the republican caucus assigns Senator Miller to positions on foreign relations, naval affairs, and mines committees. He was at first assigned to the committee on commerce in place of Senator Jones of Nevada, who was transferred to the foreign relations committee, but it was discovered that this arrangement would interfere with Senator Farley's relations on the commerce, which never includes two members from the same state. Senator Jones waived his preference and the caucus placed Mr. Miller, the complaint, very unusual for a new senator, of placing him upon the foreign relations committee, while Jones returns to the committee on commerce, holding also his former positions on the finance committee and becoming chairman of the committee on contingent expenses which gives him an annual clerk and a committee room. The business of the committee on foreign relations will be of more than usual interest and importance to California this session, and probably throughout the present congress, as the Chinese treaties are to be again considered and reported by it and in the near future the committee will be called upon to consider such other important methods as the inter-oceanic canal question and the treaties that are to be projected for the development of commerce and the full protection of American industrial enterprises in Mexico.

An additional police force has been stationed at the Mansion house, Bank of England and other important buildings.

An Oft-Defeated Proposition Revived.

DUBLIN, March 17.—Freeman's Journal says that a subject which the Roman Catholic prelates had before them Tuesday was a proposal from Rome for the appointment of a papal nuncio at the court of St. James, and adds that it will be with feelings of intense satisfaction that the Irish people will learn that the prelates were unanimous in pronouncing against the proposed change and that their views have been embodied in a most decided letter, which will be forwarded at once to Rome.

DUBLIN, March 18.—The Freeman's Journal regards the appointment of a papal nuncio at the court of St. James as one of the most dangerous intrigues ever attempted by England against the nation and faith of Catholic Ireland.

Programme of the New Reign to be Announced.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 17.—The Agence Russe states that a circular from the minister of foreign affairs to the various Russian embassies and legations will be published to-morrow, containing the political programme of the new reign. The emperor and empress have taken up their residence in the winter palace.

An Accessory.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—Michaeloff is the name of the young man arrested on the 16th inst. at the house where Roussakoff obtained the bombs. He is a peasant from the province of Smolensk. Papers found in his possession mention both Catherine canal and Little Garden street in the neighborhood of the scene of the czar's assassination.

Russian Items.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—The Journal de St. Petersburg states, evidently officially, that a manifesto will forthwith be issued announcing that pacific views are held by the new Czar.

Twelve pounds of dynamite have been found in a mine near the czar's palace.

It is believed that the Grand Duke Vladimir advocates strong repressive measures.

The ground dug up where the mine was discovered has been refilled, the doors of the shop in which the mouth of the tunnel is situated, sealed up and guards stationed at the premises. It has been decided to erect a religious monument upon the spot where the czar fell. One of the chief organizers of the plot, captured two days before the assassination, confessed, after the deed was accomplished, and so deeply incriminated Roussakoff, that he also confessed and denounced his accomplices. Hence the arrests on Monday and Tuesday and the discovery of the mine. Many revolutionary proclamations have been found posted inside and outside of public buildings. The Novoe Vremya says that the Russian authorities were advised several months ago that Nihilists from Chicago, Illinois, had recently entered the country.

Probably Untrue.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—A measure had actually been prepared with the sanction of the late czar tending towards representative government.

The New Administration.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 18.—It is stated that the czar desires to have the chancellor direct the administration of foreign affairs. Prince Orloff and Gen. Ignatieff are mentioned in this connection.

Nihilists Congratulated.

PARIS, March 18.—Placards congratulating the nihilists on the assassination of the czar have been posted here and one arrest was made.

From a Socialist Source.

Rochefort's letter to the Intransigeant from Geneva says: Roussakoff joined the nihilists only a few days before the assassination of the czar. Rochefort supplements the letter by a telegram stating that up to Monday night at least, Roussakoff had confessed nothing. The nihilists pretend that they have taken every measure to keep themselves informed as to what passes in the prisons so that in a few days they will be able to publish an accurate report of all interrogations to which he has been subjected. Rochefort's dispatch adds that the first shells missed the emperor three others would have been thrown before he reached the palace.

Russia's Foreign Policy.

The minister of foreign affairs has addressed the following circular to Russian representatives abroad: His majesty the emperor, on ascending the throne of his ancestors, assumes as an inheritance the traditions consecrated by time and the facts. Russia has now attained her full development. Feelings of jealousy and discontent are equally foreign to her. The emperor will first give attention to the internal development of the state. The emperor's foreign policy will be entirely pacific. Russia will remain faithful to her friends, reciprocate the friendliness of all states, and act in concert with other governments in maintaining general peace, only the duty of protecting her honor or security may divert her from the work of internal development. The emperor will endeavor to strengthen his power, advance her welfare and secure her prosperity without detriment to others. These are the principles by which the policy of the emperor will invariably be guided. The emperor charges you to bring this declaration to the knowledge of the government to which you are accredited, and to communicate this dispatch to the minister of foreign affairs.

The castle was in a [illegible] was sentenced to [illegible] months [illegible]

Land meetings were held last Sunday in eleven counties, and were attended by great crowds. These meetings were characterized with immense enthusiasm, fiery speeches and strong, determined, and ringing resolutions. The Irish people are most determined, and will fight the good fight to the last. Four hundred tenants under landlord Falmer, of Mayo, have struck against the payment of rent on account of the arresting going on.

Eviction notices are falling in showers over Ireland. Twelve hundred writs and ejectment were served last week. The land league counsels the people to resist to the last. The consequence, in all likelihood, of this general resistance will be large numbers of fatal sales for non-payment of rent. What the landlords will gain by such a procedure remains to be seen. There is a general feeling with regard to ejectments throughout the land league that the people should allow the evictions to take place and that the land league should then immediately provide houses and wooden [illegible]

COLUMBIA RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

The Debate in the Senate on Mr. Slater's Amendment to Increase the Appropriation.

[illegible]

Mr. Slater: [illegible] I move to strike out [illegible]

Improving lower Willamette and Columbia rivers from Portland, Oregon, to the sea, including bar at mouth of Columbia river, Oregon, $[illegible]

Mr. President: This improvement is one of the [illegible] Within the eleven months [illegible] I now ask that it be increased to $[illegible] which is above the average for appropriations of this character, as presented on the recommendation of the department. It seems to me that if national revenue ought to be taken into consideration, this is one which should be considered. I hope the committee will not move to lay this amendment on the table, but as the question is made, I hope the senate will vote down the motion.

Mr. Thurman: Mr. President, this bill proposes a very large expenditure of money. I do not know [illegible] objects [illegible] in my judgment they ought to be. If the appropriations to improve commerce [illegible] of the [illegible] money over a vast number of objects until it [illegible] that it benefits none of them, were [illegible] appropriated to the improvement of some great harbors or channels of commerce, I do not know but that I should gladly support the bill. But when a bill is brought in that expends money upon the most insignificant streams in the country, that utterly wastes money in an attempt to improve that which cannot be improved, which nature never meant to be a navigable stream, which nature never meant for a channel of commerce, which human ingenuity cannot convert into a channel of commerce, when money is expended upon such objects as those, and these places which ought to be improved like the mouth of the Columbia are neglected, I for one must say that I will vote against the small and insignificant and reckless appropriations, and in favor of expending money where it can do some good.

[illegible] with the exception of the harbor of San Francisco, all object more worthy the consideration of congress than the mouth of the Columbia river. Is there any man familiar with the history of the western coast of this country who does not know that the bar at the mouth of that river has presented one of the greatest and most dangerous obstacles to navigation and commerce that is presented on the whole of that coast? [illegible] [illegible]

Mr. President, I shall vote for the amendment with the greatest pleasure, and I hope that the senate having a view [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Booth: I have this to say in response to the [illegible] by the senator from Ohio [illegible]

Mr. Bayard: I appreciate and comprehend fully the feelings and motives that control the senator from California, but they did not affect the judgment of the committee, and I hope they will not affect the judgment of the senate. I renew the motion to lay the amendment on the table.

Mr. Morgan called for the yeas and nays, and they were ordered; and being taken, resulted—yeas 20, nays 25.

So the motion was not agreed to.

The presiding officer—The question is on the amendment of the senator from Oregon [Mr. Slater].

Mr. Saulsbury—I do not very much to differ with the committee, but having some knowledge of the character of the mouth of the Columbia river and the importance of that river to the general commerce of the country, I feel bound to say that the amendment offered by the senator from Oregon is, in my judgment a very proper amendment. Some three years ago I had the opportunity of being on the Pacific coast and seeing this river for myself. There is every large amount of commerce on the Columbia river. [illegible] Portland I found that in a brief space of time there had been seventy-two ships loaded at Portland with wheat for foreign markets, and all but three were foreign bottoms, and yet the navigation of the mouth of that river was considered so dangerous and so uncertain in rough weather that many shipmasters determined not to attempt to enter the mouth of that river, and passed on one hundred miles farther and landed their cargoes there, when they came across Washington Territory to Oregon.

[illegible] necessity for the improvement of the mouth of that river to the commerce [illegible] [illegible] I therefore am compelled to differ with the judgment of the committee and to vote for the appropriation moved by my friend, the senator from Oregon.

Mr. Kernan—This bill, as I am informed, appropriates now about eleven and a half million dollars, and yet this [illegible] increase of the amount for this particular improvement from $[illegible] to $[illegible]. I think that the mouth of the Columbia river is included which is properly to be taken care of by the federal government. [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Teller—Let the amendment be reported.

The Chief Clerk—In line [illegible] it is proposed to strike out [illegible] and insert "one hundred and seventy-five"

Including bar at the mouth of Columbia river, Oregon, $[illegible]

The secretary proceeded to call the roll, as follows:

Yeas—Bailey, Bayard, Brown, Davis of Illinois, Dawes, Garland, Grover, Hampton, Hill of Georgia, Hoar, Ingalls, Kernan, Jonas, Morgan, Morrill, Paddock, Pendleton, Ransom, Saunders, Slater, Teller, Thurman, Vest—23.

Nays—Anthony, Baldwin, Beck, Blair, Booth, Burnside, Butler, Call, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Coke, Eaton, Ferry, Harris, Hereford, Hill of Colorado, Johnston, Jones of Florida, Lamar, McDonald, McMillan, Maxey, Pugh, Ransom, Rollins, Vance, Voorhees, Williams, Windom—[illegible]

Allison, [illegible] Cameron of Wisconsin, Conkling, Davis of West Virginia, Edmunds, Kellogg, Hamlin, Jones of Nevada, Kellogg, Kirkwood, McPherson, Platt, Randolph, Saulsbury, Sharon, Walker, Wallace, Whyte, Withers—[illegible]

So the amendment was rejected.

A VOICE OF ANTIQUITY.

The Inscription upon the New York Obelisk.

From the New York Herald, [illegible]

To-day, while the final ceremonies are taking place in Central Park to complete the act of possession of one of the most remarkable surviving monuments of antiquity, the Herald, through the discernment of a correspondent in Egypt, enables its myriads of readers to comprehend for the first time the real significance of the mysterious characters engraved three thousand five hundred years ago upon a granite shaft in the "Red Mountain" of Syene, by command of the greatest of Egyptian monarchs. Fragments of translations have heretofore appeared in the columns of the Herald and of other European and American periodicals, but none so complete and trustworthy as the present, which is from the pen of a scholar who is universally recognized as the chief living interpreter of the monuments of Egypt, Dr. Henry Brugsch Bey. From it we learn that our monolith commemorates the names and exploits of three monarchs, each separated from the others by several centuries. The first of these, Thutmes III., was, we are told, the Alexander the Great of Egypt, who carried his arms to Central Africa and Assyria; the second, Ramsen or Rameses II., called Meriamun, was the Sesostris of Herodotus and persecutor of the father of Moses, while the third, Usertsen I., the son of the biblical Shishak, betrays by his Assyrian name the already accomplished vassalage of Egypt to the great rival empire on the Tigris.

On some important points Dr. Brugsch Bey's accompanying letter gives a final quietus to several pet theories which have recently been promulgated. One of these is the attempt to show that the probable date of erection of the obelisk at Heliopolis was approximately 1591 B. C. This would be a very taking coincidence for mystery lovers, but Dr. Brugsch pronounces the date of Thutmes III. to have been "about 1600 B. C." and in the existing uncertainty of Egyptian chronology this lower date is intrinsically the more probable one. He also fixes for Rameses II. the date of 1350 B. C., which is more than five hundred years lower than that given by most of the biblical investigators who have labored so perseveringly to identify him with the "Pharaoh of the Exodus." Dr. Brugsch steers clear of this rock of offence, though his closing suggestion that the obelisk may have been erected by Hebrew bond-labor shows that he is not altogether exempt from the mania of inventing biblical illustrations where none can be proved to exist. The same observation may apply to his reference to the "One Eternal Divinity worshiped by the Egyptians," whereas it has been conclusively shown by late researches that monotheism was a plant of late growth on Egyptian soil, and to his constant use of the title "Pharaoh" to designate our obelisk builders—a title not found upon the monuments and exclusively derived from the biblical records. These observations, however, detract nothing from the accuracy of the great historical significance of the authoritative translation which the Herald is enabled to present from the text of [illegible] [illegible] It may be hoped that the associations created by the erection of one of [illegible] a broader and more [illegible] foundation of Egyptology in America.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 19, 1881.

HOW THE THING IS DONE.

The debate in the senate on Mr. Slater's motion to increase the appropriation allotted to the Columbia river drew from Mr. Thurman and other senators some extended remarks favorable thereto, which we print in another place. But though the increase asked for was extremely small, it was refused. The senators who spoke for it could not be answered, but they were voted down. Mr. Thurman rightly denounced the local greed which wastes upon the most insignificant streams vast sums of money, to stint the appropriations for a great river like the Columbia. To see how these things are done, let us look a little into the river and harbor bill. Every measure of this kind begins as a game of grab in the house of representatives. Every member "gets all he can for his district," without reference to the fact whether it contains any rivers or harbors, or not. The allotment goes largely by partisan favor. Of course many of the items are shameful swindles. For instance, the Kanawha river in West Virginia is down for $200,000; and the Kanawha Gazette, the great paper of the region drained by the mighty Kanawha river,—a stream which will float flatboats only by the aid of dams, and then only after a heavy rain,—gleefully exclaims: "Kanawha river receives as much as the harbor of the city of New York! The third district (of West Virginia) receives more this year from the public treasury than the net amount of all the taxes that have gone into the treasury from the whole state of West Virginia for five years!" And how did this happen? A Bourbon politician worked up "influence" with the committee, and his demands were granted because he promised to help others to their share. It was a large amount of spoil, and each got the largest possible dividend of the plunder, while improvements really demanded by the commerce of the country were scouted, or denied altogether. So it is, every time. In the late division of spoil Ransom, of North Carolina, chairman of the committee on commerce, added to the bill as it came from the house a quarter of a million dollars for improving the petty streams of his state. Mr. Thurman showed that for Cape Fear river the senate committee increased the amount from $10,000, as it came from the house, to $170,000; for the Neuse from $15,000 to $30,000; for the Pamlico and Tar rivers from $30,000 to $50,000; the Trent from $2000 to $4500. Then said the senator, "the house did not think anything was necessary for the Yadkin river, for Contentnia creek, wherever that is, or Beaufort harbor or Lillington river, but our committee thinks $11,000 necessary for Yadkin river, $10,000 necessary for Contentnia creek, $30,000 necessary for Beaufort harbor and $3000 for Lillington river; but they could not give us $20,000 more to go on with the work of the ice harbor on the Ohio, although the local engineer and the chief engineer recommended an appropriation of $130,000." Mr. Thurman too was about tired of the annual appropriation for French Broad river. This stream is a tributary of a tributary of the upper Tennessee; and its importance as a channel of commerce may be judged from the fact that its mouth is above the head of navigation on the stream into which it flows. Mr. Thurman said:

> We have been voting here ever since I have been in the senate, year after year, to improve the French Broad, in North Carolina, so that catfish could navigate it, and I suppose that we shall go on to the end of time, as long as there are catfish in the stream. I ought to know something about the state of Virginia—Old Virginia; but, upon my honor, I never heard of Nomini creek, Virginia, for which $2000 are given in this bill. I never heard of Pamunkey creek, in Virginia, for which $3000 are given in this bill. I certainly never heard of Totuski river, in Virginia, and I doubt now whether my learned friend from North Carolina, great geographer that he is, could tell, on the spur of the moment, where Totuski river is. My recollection is that it is the power to regulate commerce which gives us the right, if we have it at all, to pass this bill. Does that give us the power to regulate the commerce of trout streams in the mountains of West Virginia? What is commerce? Is commerce the swimming of tadpoles? Is commerce the disporting of frogs in the ponds of North Carolina? Is commerce deepening the French Broad, so that a good, big sucker can swim over it? Not the least in the world.

Mr. Thurman honored himself by declaring the right principle in regard to these appropriations and denouncing the jobbery in them, saying:

> This bill is not a right bill. Every member on this floor, I believe, feels that it is not a right bill, sir. I am in favor a bill that shall appropriate money properly and rightly to benefit the commerce of the country; but I am not in favor of a bill that appropriates money for the improvement of streams where a tadpole could scarcely wriggle. I am not in favor of benefiting Mr. A. B.'s chances for re-election to the house of representatives by voting for a bill that improves some tadpole stream in his district, or some other stream, so that a catfish can swim in it.

We wish these things had come from a senator from Oregon. They would have been highly appropriate. It is gratifying as one reads the portion of the debate elsewhere printed to observe that so good a plea was made for the Columbia river by Messrs. Thurman, Saulsbury, Kernan and Farley; but it would have been even more gratifying had the Oregon senator put more force into the effort to secure this act of justice for the great Pacific northwest.

AN IMPORTANT OPINION.

The full text of the opinion of the supreme court of the United States in the case of Hallet Kilbourn vs. the sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives, for false imprisonment, is published. The opinion is quite long and was a unanimous deliverance of the court. It is the first time in the history of our government that the judicial department, upon which devolves the duty of interpreting the constitutional functions of the several branches of our governmental system, has been so clearly and elaborately defined. The encroachment of the legislative department upon the rights of the citizen, which has heretofore been indulged in by congress under an assumed prerogative of inherited parliamentary powers, is by the judgment of the supreme court an exercise of unlawful authority.

The opinion quotes freely from English parliamentary precedents and practices, and shows clearly the distinction between the usages of that system, undefined as they are by any fundamental grant of authority from the people, and the prerogatives of congress, which are limited within the strict construction of the powers expressly conferred by the constitution of the United States.

This opinion warns congress that it must confine its action to matters of legislation exclusively, and not assume to perform the duties that are devolved by the constitution upon the judiciary department, a co-ordinate branch of the government. The opinion of the court is a landmark in the history of our jurisprudence, and stands forth boldly for the protection of the citizen against the encroachment upon his liberty by any branch of the government. It was a theory started by that strict constructionist, Jefferson, and asserted after him by Jackson, that each branch of the government was the judge of its own constitutional functions and powers. On their theory the house could still send any one to prison and keep him there, in spite of this decision of the court, or the mandates of any tribunal.

The dairymen of Orange county and other localities near the city of New York, have formed an association to control the milk supply of the city. At the same time they are understood to be bitterly opposed to railroad pools and combinations. But they see nothing wrong in trying to control the supply and price of milk. The fact is that wherever men are found a good deal of human nature may be found too.

The Chicago Tribune has it that Oregon regulates the liquor traffic by requiring every man who drinks to take out a license which costs him $5 a year. We give this as a rumor which may produce consternation among a large class in our state. But the Tribune tells us that if we desire prohibition the license for drinking is altogether too low. It thinks $1000 would be about the proper figure.

AN EFFORT TO QUIET ALARM.

Perhaps it may be as well for THE OREGONIAN to turn aside a moment from its accustomed business to relieve certain fearful minds of a weight that appears to oppress them. Within the last few weeks we have observed, with some concern that several powerful newspapers in various parts of the state were agonized by the discovery that THE OREGONIAN was possessed of an impudent and unholy ambition to "dictate" to the republican party. That they respond with spirit. It is their high and firm resolve that this paper shall not lead, dictate or control. Now we like this spirit and applaud it. At the same time it seems to be a duty to calm the perturbation thus exhibited. The esteemed and powerful newspapers are mistaken. THE OREGONIAN has no such mission, purpose, desire or ambition as they attribute to it. Perhaps it is only natural that they should resolve, like the Turk, to bear no brother near the throne; and that feeling on their part is perfectly satisfactory, and even gratifying, to us. Let us hope they may be able to indulge it in the future without needless disquietude or alarm.

A few more observations may be in point. Were this journal really ambitious of party leadership and control, it would pursue a very different course. It would have no opinions of its own. It would crucify its independence. It would adopt the profound wisdom of Mr. Pickwick and shout always with the largest crowd. It would stand in with party bosses, echo their wishes, trumpet their greatness, praise all their acts, never question the wisdom of any measure proposed in the name of the party, and fetch and carry through thick and thin. Its censures would not fall upon the buccaneers of politics who use party for their own selfish and unworthy ends, but would all be reserved for those who had been driven by outrage to assert their citizenship and defy bossism. These last it would attack as disorganizers and denounce as unworthy citizens. It would give itself wholly up to the demands of partisanship, and would make its function of a newspaper entirely subordinate to the claims of those who assume to control party, and who pursue as a professional study the game of party manipulations for what can be made out of it.

But this paper has other objects. It does not exist for politics. It does not want to lead party. It touches politics merely as an incidental matter, just as it touches and deals with other subjects. At proper times it advocates the general purposes and doctrines of the republican party; but it does this independently, and from none of the motives that induce professional politicians to strive for party success. It does not look to the sunlight of personal favor, nor to the flesh-pots or swill-buckets of official patronage for support. Like all newspapers worth the name, it subsists by legitimate business, which is solely the object of its existence. It is desirous of furnishing the public what it wants and is willing to pay for, and equally solicitous to give the worth of the money. Realizing that fair dealing with the whole public is the basis of all success for a public journal, it is studious to present news on all subjects with fullness and accuracy, coupled with candid discussion and comment. All this, of course, is inconsistent with the obedience and servility which the self-appointed managers of party require. They want an "organ;" and it is in their eyes a frightful offense, and unpardonable sin, for a newspaper to assert its independence. Their notion of a newspaper makes it the slave, creature or property of political gamblers who take it upon themselves to play the game of party manipulation for all there is in it. Except for such purpose a newspaper, in their judgment, has no reason to be.

Perhaps it may be needful also to say that the actual newspaper has an existence independent of matters pertaining to office-holding and official patronage. As a matter of fact it has extremely little concern about these things. To those who are wholly absorbed in them, doubtless it is inconceivable that the world could present other objects worthy of pursuit, or that man could be happy in contemplation of anything else. It is natural, perhaps, for the noble army who have forsaken all legitimate employments to follow this game of intrigue and servitude to imagine that the catechism should be amended so as to define their pursuit to be the chief end of man. This journal is frank to say that it does not expect the sympathy and appreciation of the class who place this pursuit before them as their chief good and final hope. Hence, it will waste no effort in trying to persuade them that life might be supportable on some other basis. But it may be fit to add that there are people enough who fail to see even in the obtainment of a seat in the United States senate anything worthy of agonizing effort. Even that station which once was regarded as an exalted one, has been so cheapened of late years by the scramble of small and contemptible men for it, that it no longer affords any special honor. What then shall be thought of the ambition of those who become the followers, flatterers and drudges of the schemer who has worked himself into the place, or who aspires to it, content to take their pay in chances of obtaining the lower positions which it is supposed to command?

We sincerely hope the fears we have spoken of will be dismissed. THE OREGONIAN does not want to "dictate to the party." It has no desire to "lead" or "control" it. It has larger purposes and higher objects. It may, indeed, at times interfere with the calculations and desires of those who attempt to lead it. But this is one of the duties which the public justly expect trustworthy journalism, on proper occasions, to perform.

Our dispatches yesterday reported the death at New York of "Gen. Philip S. Crooks"—evidently Gen. Philip St. George Cooke, a retired officer of distinguished record. He was born in Virginia in 1809, and graduated from the military academy in 1827. By gallant conduct in the Mexican war he attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel, and later distinguished himself in Indian campaigns in the western territories, particularly by a victory over the Apaches at Cineguilla, New Mexico, in 1855. His services in Kansas during the troubles of 1856–7, as commander of the U. S. forces there, were important and highly commended, and his conduct during the war of the rebellion was conspicuous for gallantry. He was stationed in California in 1847. Gen. Cooke retired several years ago from active service on the rank of brigadier, and the brevet of major-general, and has since lived quietly at New York, engaging occasionally in literary work.

Secretary Blaine is a strong and able supporter of the extreme doctrines of our protectionist philosophers. But when France applies the doctrine of protection to exclusion from her limits of one of our great products, pork, to-wit, Secretary Blaine is moved to remonstrate. Though the act of France is not avowedly a retaliatory measure for our refusal to take her products, it is practically that. She can favor her own pig drivers and at the same time give us a chance to see the beauties of our system from a point of view opposite to that usually presented. Since we prohibit by law the purchase of French ships and since we lay a prohibitory duty on pretty much all kinds of French goods and fabrics, what right have we to complain when France heaves our pork fat into the fire?

The total earnings of the Union Pacific railroad for the year 1880 were $22,455,131; total expenses, $10,545,119; surplus earnings, $11,910,105. To this surplus must be added income from investments in connecting roads, etc., making the total surplus earnings of the company $13,204,416. These enormous figures show better than any other argument possibly could the great extortions of the monopoly and the urgent necessity of competition.

The circular issued from the Russian foreign office to ambassadors, announcing a policy of peace and of internal development, is the regulation thing and of course means nothing. Time only will develop the character of the reign just commenced. The new czar meets great and urgent problems of government. His subjects are clamoring for privileges which they see enjoyed by their neighbors of the German empire, England and France, and which are the glory of these great nations. The reforms which they ask involve radical change from methods of government adapted to a half-civilized people, to the more refined and gentle policies of the most enlightened countries. Fair as these demands appear, and just as they really are, viewed as coming from a large class of the Russian people their indulgence would be the ruin of the empire. Russia has a class of men and of institutions in keeping with the best development of the age, but it has also many millions of people who, in point of civilization, are four centuries behind this class. To establish a system of government adapted at once to old and to new types of men, which will encourage progress and control ignorance, this is the great work to which Alexander III. must address himself.

News from Ireland, as telegraphed by a landleaguer, from Dublin to Irish sympathizers, differs materially from the ordinary reports which come through English tory sources. Both are in the interest of a party—one to secure help from America for the league, the other to discourage it. The truth with reference to the situation probably lies between the divergent stories. The statements of fact in our dispatches are reliable, but comment either one way or the other is apt to be colored, and should be taken with salt.

With the aid of Mahone and the vote of the vice president the republicans of the senate have succeeded in electing the committees. This excites the wrath of the democrats, and they propose yet to find a way to defeat the republican plan to organize the senate and install its officers. But it looks now as if that would be a rather difficult thing to compass.

"Imperious Cæsar, dead and turned to clay, may stop a hole to keep the wind away." Perhaps were the post paramount living now he would stop to remark that they are firing up locomotives on the Alexandrian railroad in Egypt with the bones of dead Pharaohs and Ptolemies. Cheops and Cleopatra went out of a smoke stack years ago.

BLOOD IS THE LIFE.

FOR THIS SEASON OF THE YEAR WITH changeable climates, prevent Rheumatism by using Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier. The universal celebrity which this medicine is rapidly gaining in every section of this country, and the many astonishing cures it has effected, have now established its efficacy beyond all doubt. But it should be remembered in diseases of the Blood or Liver, as in all other Chronic Affections, a little time and good treatment is always necessary to effect a cure. In nearly every case the Oregon Blood Purifier will afford immediate relief of Our Stomach Disease, Liver and Kidney Troubles, which make the blood impure. It will effect great change in the whole body properly. We find persons not knowing their sickness are apt to expect too much, while others expect a single bottle to effect a cure. Some require two or three bottles, and others more than double quantity. For further information and particulars see circular around each bottle. Sold by all dealers. Price per bottle $1, or $5 for six bottles.

$10 REWARD.

THE OREGONIAN Publishing Company will pay $10 reward for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of stealing THE OREGONIAN from doors of its subscribers in East Portland.

CITY.

A MISSING MAN.—On the 29th of January, James Brown, formerly of San Francisco, left the house of a Mr Nowy, who resides near Olympia, W. T., to come to Portland. It was Mr. Brown's intention when he left Nowy, to take the steamer for San Francisco on arriving here. Since that date, nothing whatever has been seen or heard of Brown. About three weeks after Brown left for Portland, his wife received a letter from Mr. Nowy, directed to her husband. She was much surprised on ascertaining that Mr. Brown had left for his home several weeks before. She began to inquire about the matter, and was greatly concerned on ascertaining that he had left for home on the steamer Oregon on the 29th of January. She arrived here on the steamer Oregon and to-day will start for Olympia, and if possible, will trace up the whereabouts of her husband. In personal appearance Brown was of sandy complexion, five feet 11½ in. tall; he was a large, well-formed man. When he left Nowy's he was well dressed, and wore a long grey ulster. Any information concerning his whereabouts of the missing man will be thankfully received by a very anxious wife. Letters addressed to Bishop Morris, Portland, or to Mr. Judah, ticket agent at the Southern Pacific Railroad Co., San Francisco, will reach the lady.

FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon a few minutes before five, fire broke out in the second story of the frame building owned by J. S. Smith adjoining THE OREGONIAN building on the south. An alarm was turned in from box 13, corner Front and Washington, and responded to with remarkable promptness. No. 4's got a stream in the flames with much speed and were quickly followed by 2's and 1's. Geo. Sager, owner of the Union saloon, who occupied the second floor as a family residence, loses in furniture by fire and water, about $400; uninsured. Kahn Bros., fur dealers, next door, suffer from $1000 to $1500 loss, mostly by water, and fully insured. Damage to the building, which is of no great value, will be about $150; no insurance. The fire originated from a defective flue or stovepipe.

GETS THE REWARD.—It will be remembered that detective H. M. Hudson brought suit against Clackamas county for $500, the reward offered for the arrest of the murderers of Barbara Hagar. The case was tried in this county and resulted in Hudson's favor. It was appealed to the supreme court, who Wednesday sustained the decision of the circuit court. Messrs. Ball & Gregory appeared for the plaintiff, and M. C. Athey, E. D. Shattuck, and Caples and Mulkey for the county.

NEW ENTERPRISE.—Messrs. J. W. Brazee, Geo. L. Hibbard and John Switzer, of this city have filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office, also in the office of secretary of state, organizing the "Oregon Boot, Shoe and Leather Co." The capital stock is $20,000, divided into 500 shares of $100 each. The company intends to build and operate one or more tanneries in connection with the jobbing business here.

STALLION POISONED.—J. Pat Smith, who owns a ranch in Wasco county, had the misfortune to lose his valuable stallion "Waterford" a few days ago. Some malevolent person gave the animal a dose of strychnine, from the effects of which he died in a few minutes. There is no clue to the perpetrator of the outrage. Mr. Smith purchased Waterford recently in California, paying for the animal $2000.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The regular annual meeting of the Portland Seamen's Friend Society will be held this evening in the Young Men's Christian Association hall, on First street, between Alder and Washington streets, at 7:30. All members and friends earnestly invited to be present, as very important business is to be considered and acted upon.

CLERKS' AND SHERIFFS' FEES.—The case of Manning vs. Rippell, argued a few days since before the supreme court, is intended as a test case as to the constitutionality of the act passed by the last legislature establishing salaries for clerks and sheriffs in certain counties in this state. The court has the matter under advisement.

COMMUTED.—The governor has commuted the sentences of Frank Thompson, Frank Laurence, and P. M. Bandman, sent from Umatilla county for the crime of larceny for a term of two years each from June 5, 1879; reasons assigned for executive clemency, uniform good conduct and term of sentence being nearly expired.

INSANE.—For the past week, Mrs. Baum, a middle aged German lady living near the corner of Third and D, has shown signs of insanity. Yesterday afternoon she was taken in charge by the police and placed in the city jail. She has relatives in Oregon City and Salem.

MEAN PETTY LARCENY.—Last Thursday morning between 9 and 12 o'clock, some vandal stole two Bibles from the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association. It is to be hoped that whoever took them will make the best possible use of them and profit thereby.

A FRIENDLY GAME.—The Portland Foot Ball Club will meet at Stark street ferry at 2 P. M. to-day for a friendly game in East Portland. All members of the club and those interested in the game are invited to attend.

STEAMER'S MAIL.—The Oregon brought 124 canvas sacks, two lock pouches, one registered pouch and two cases of mail. Her delay was caused by the bar breaking badly and the steamer being loaded beyond 21 feet.

INCORPORATED.—The Bank of Oregon City and the Boot, Shoe and Leather Manufacturing Company have filed articles of incorporation in the office of the secretary of state.

VERY ILL.—Rev. Dr. E. R. Geary is still at Albany and is reported very ill. His condition is such that it was impracticable to remove him to his home in Eugene City.

WILL SAIL SUNDAY.—The steamer Oregon will sail for San Francisco to-morrow morning at 4 o'clock. Mails will close as usual at 11 o'clock to-night.

ADJOURNED.—The supreme court of the state of Oregon adjourned on Thursday last until Monday next at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

ADMITTED.—Yesterday, on motion, Milton W. Smith was admitted to practice as an attorney in the U. S. circuit court.

AMUSEMENTS.

HARMONY MINSTRELS.—The first appearance of the Harmony Minstrels drew a very fair audience at New Market theater last evening. The performance, considering the fact that the performers are, with scarcely an exception, amateurs, was certainly quite creditable both in detail and its entirety. The singing in part first was, with few exceptions, very good. Geo. Wilson sang "Cruel Mary Holder," J. D. Griffin, "Sandy Haired Mary," H. E. Haste, "Under the Daisies," "Johnny Kearney," "Darwin Theory," E. C. Curtis, "Come Back to the Old Home Again," Joe Sherwood, "Jingle Bells," E. O. Wheeler, "Slumber not Darling." The finale, "Maud S versus Time," by Griffin, Sherwood, Wilson, and the full company, was exceedingly funny, and greeted with roars and shouts of laughter. The sketch, "Dr. Slyde" by Gordon, Griffin and Haste, furnished much amusement to the audience. The clog of Grant, the vocal duet of Messrs. Wheeler and Curtis with guitar accompaniment, and character specialties by Gordon, were each quite clever in its line. Following this came the very amusing farce "Arrival of Lindy," by Wheeler, Wilson and Griffin, which provoked much merriment. The orchestra rendered an overture, after which Kearney gave a jig. A "Troublesome Youth," by Gordon, Sherwood and Wilson, concluded the performance.

This afternoon a matinee performance will be given for the accommodation of ladies and children. This evening the third and last performance will be given.

Both plays were well rendered. The scenery was artistically arranged by Dr. W. Flinn.

WHY WE ASK PEOPLE TO DINNER.

In asking people to dinner you should put to yourself the question, "Why do I ask them?" and unless the answer be satisfactory they are not likely to contribute much to the agreeability and sociability of the entertainment. They may be ornamental; it may be necessary, in a give-and-take sense, to have them in return for a dinner already long received and digested; but unless they are sensible, social, unaffected and clever men, they are not likely to contribute much to the hilarity of the entertainment. You may ask a man because he talks brilliantly and eloquently; because he is a wit; because he is a distinguished artist, author or orator; or because he is a "jolly good fellow." But do not ask any, however much above the average, who is a prig, who is pretentious, who is disputatious, or who has not the feelings, habits, manners and education of a gentleman. The presence of men of this stamp is destructive of good fellowship. They are social pests.

THE Y. M. H. A. BON BON PARTY.

Last Tuesday evening Masonic hall was the scene of a very enjoyable ball under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association. It was marked by a great sociability; a happy medium between full dress, stiff affairs and impromptu gatherings; by excellent music and a good lunch. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Eachman, Mr. and Mrs. S. Abraham, Mr. and Mrs. L. Lachman, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. White, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hecht of San Francisco, Mrs A. Loeb, Mrs. C. Ellis, Mrs. Chas. SURPRISE TO MR. AND MRS. J. S. AKIN.

Last Tuesday was the tenth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Akin and their friends determined to surprise them with a tin wedding. Accordingly on the evening named about 25 couples met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Northrup, and from there proceeded to the home of the worthy couple, who were all unconscious of the fate in store for them. A sharp ring of the bell brought Mr. Akin to the door and the pleading smile with which he welcomed the merry throng into his parlors bespoke a hearty good time, and in that time were anticipated. Although completely surprised the bride and groom, assisted by Miss Addie Akin, their niece, soon found room for the large array of friends and ere long the party were engaged in merry conversation, the old and young entering into the joy of the occasion with equal zest. The numerous presents were all of tin, some of them quite ornamental and all useful. Little Mabel, their six-year-old daughter, favored the company with a pretty selection of instrumental music and the young folks indulged in a few choice vocal selections. Refreshments, with which the party were amply supplied, were served during the evening and were not the least factor in making the occasion enjoyable. At a late hour the party dispersed, going away content that the household were happy and that they had enjoyed their surprise.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Moreland and son, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Henry, Rev. and Mrs. Izer, Dr. Samuel Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Gill, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. THE HOME SOCIABLE.

The Congregational Ladies' Society gave a very successful entertainment last Tuesday evening. The vestry was filled. The entertainment began promptly at the hour advertised with a duet, "The Quaker's Wooing," by Mrs. Cruzan and Mr. McClaire in costume, which was fairly sung and well acted. Geo. Best's solo, "A Warrior Bold," showed his fine baritone voice to good advantage. Great curiosity was evinced to see and hear "the new elocutionist." She was announced simply as "a lady from Boston," and as she read Will Carleton's "New Church Organ," in costume, the conundrum of the evening was, "Who is she?" In response to a deserved encore the debutante read a selection from "Josiah Allen's Wife's Book," and as this selection required the natural voice, her identity was revealed. The "new elocutionist" proved to be Mrs. J. A. Cruzan, whose voice as a vocalist is so well and pleasantly known. Prof. Bullock's "Chalet Horn" won a deserved encore. "The Auld Scotch Sangs," solo by Mrs. Cruzan, quartette by Miss Ross Carson, Mrs. Cruzan, Best and Messrs. McClaire and Best, was well sung and highly appreciated. The musical gem of the evening was Mendelssohn's "May Bells," sung charmingly by Miss Carson and Mrs. Cruzan, and the quartette "O Hush Thee My Baby," by Mrs. Cruzan and Miss Carson, and Messrs. Best and McClaire. The entertainment was followed by a very pleasant social and refreshments. This was one of the most enjoyable church entertainments of the season.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION.

The Proposed Bridge; will it be an Obstruction to Navigation? Opinion of Col. Gillespie, U. S. Engineer—Objections to the Site and Plan.

That interested parties should oppose the building of a bridge across the river at Portland, is not a matter of wonder when the fact is considered that the ferriage business is one of great profitableness and that it is rapidly increasing all the time. No better paying piece of property could probably be found in Multnomah county to-day, than the ferry, owned by the Knott Bros., and that they should oppose the construction of the bridge so near the line of their ferry, is the most natural thing in the world. Any man desirous of preserving his own wealth take the same course. But when the objections to the present plan are made and the reasons for such objection as plainly given, as we find in the reports made by Col. G. L. Gillespie to the chief of engineers at Washington, D. C., it becomes a matter of very great consequence to the city of Portland and to her people. But few cities situated as Portland are to be found in the United States, so far from the coast, and yet visited by and conducting such a large share of their business upon seagoing vessels, both sail and steam. This fact makes the free and unobstructed navigation of the river an object of the greatest import to the future growth and commercial prosperity of the city. Year after year congress is importuned to furnish means to deepen and straighten the river's channel and give the products of our rich valleys and plains an easy course to the sea and to the markets of the world. Hence the apparent lack of wisdom in the people themselves to allow any obstruction to be placed in the river, which can be prevented. That the bridge now begun will be an obstruction to navigation of the river, there can be no doubt, for that the river could be bridged at this city and navigation not be obstructed it is difficult to see. Sail vessels and ocean steamers pass up and down the river the whole length of the city and the towing of a craw, with the care and trouble of passing through with large vessels, would render the bridge, no matter how or where built, an obstruction to a greater or less extent. The further up the river the bridge might stand, and the wider the draw the less objectionable it would be as an obstruction to navigation. Therefore, in 1872, when it was proposed, under an act of congress, to construct a bridge across the river at Portland, the board of government engineers, in reporting upon the question of the plan and location of the proposed bridge, were unanimously in favor of a point at least as far up the river as Columbia street.

Last December Col. Gillespie received from the office of chief of engineers of the United States the protest of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company against the construction of the bridge at the present point, foot of Morrison street—and on the plans proposed, addressed to the secretary of war and transmitted to Colonel Gillespie, as U. S. engineer in charge of river and harbor improvements in this district, for his report thereon. Having previously investigated the subject and reported thereon when a bill introduced in the U. S. senate by Senator Grover, authorizing the construction of a bridge across the river at Portland, had been referred to him, Col. Gillespie has taken strong ground against the location of the bridge at that point, the main objections being based upon the narrowness of the river, the strength of the current at high stage and injury to the wharf property immediately south of the bridge. In the report of Col. Gillespie, bearing date Nov. 20, 1880, the plans of the bridge are more fully discussed, and while he appears to realize the necessity of a bridge and believes "that the commercial interests of the river may well concede the bridge to the city," he adds, "I did not give any approval to a bridge at Morrison street, for I have held all the while, and still hold that Columbia street is the place where it will least interfere with the navigation of the river." Further on in his report of Dec. 23, 1880, upon the plan and site of the present bridge, he says, "The more I reflect upon this subject the more unfortunate I find the site of the proposed bridge and the more necessary it appears that the draw openings should be enlarged." These convictions are forced upon him by careful observation of the depths and currents of the river at different stages. "The least admissible clear opening," says the report "is 160." The present plan proposes an opening of only 105 feet in the clear.

In conclusion Col. Gillespie says:

"I have given the subject a very careful consideration, and have arrived at the following conclusions:

First—The deep water channel is only 450 feet wide at low stage for sea going steamers and vessels of deep draught, and any bridge across the Willamette river at Portland which will materially diminish this width will seriously interfere with the navigation of the river.

Second—The draw openings, on either side of the pivot pier should be 200 feet in the clear.

Third—No individual or corporation should be allowed to obstruct the channel by building a bridge with draw openings only 105 feet wide in the clear. The adoption of such widths will cause frequent losses to shipping and may result in preventing sea going vessels from going above the bridge.

Fourth—The builders of the proposed bridge at Morrison street should be compelled to enlarge the draw openings to 200 feet as indicated.

Fifth—The bridge should have been located at Columbia street, and not at Morrison street.

The above and other objections to the proposed bridge, made by Col. Gillespie, have been substantially corroborated by the statements under oath of eleven different pilots, and altogether making a pretty strong showing. We have given these facts not in any spirit of opposition to a bridge, for a bridge is badly needed, and whoever will build one so as not to obstruct navigation, or that will obstruct it to the least possible extent, ought to have every encouragement and support from every citizen of Portland.

OREGON HOOCHINOO.

The following communication, which we clip from the Santa Rosa Republican, is from the pen of a well-known Oregon pioneer, and shows that hoochinoo, or spirits distilled from molasses, is not an Alaska novelty, but was known in the early days of Oregon as "Blue Ruin," and we suppose it may be traced back to New England rum, made from West India "sweetenings."

Blue Ruin.

It was in the spring of 1846 that a party of eight men started from the Willamette falls in a small boat to go to Fort Astoria at the mouth of the Columbia river. Fort Astoria was occupied by the Hudson Bay Company as a trading post. The country at that time was in joint occupancy with the English and an enterprising American by the name of McClure, commonly called Col. McClure, [illegible] to contest the right to the [illegible], and built a cabin in the vicinity of the fort.

At the time of which I speak, the country was under a provisional government, with stringent laws prohibiting the manufacture, sale or introduction of intoxicating liquors. [illegible] Richard McCarty, an American, claimed to be a distiller, and disputed the right of the law prohibiting him from following his legitimate business. There were no stills or boilers to be had, but he obtained a large iron pot that had found its way to the country by accident. He made a [illegible] out of the [illegible] of the country, then got a turner to make a long pipe of fir to serve for the condensing worm. Thus equipped he went to work [illegible] a vile article of molasses that came from the Islands, and distilled it with the apparatus already described. The result was an [illegible] beverage of which a small dose produced insanity. A more villainous drug was never [illegible] by the Arabs when they were in quest of the elixir of life. [illegible] or all combined, gave the liquid a bluish color, hence the appropriate name, Blue Ruin. The party of the boat before mentioned managed to smuggle a keg of Blue Ruin for the purpose of having a good time with Col. McClure. The voyage was made in safety, as the keg was not tapped until it arrived at McClure's cabin. The colonel was a hospitable man, glad to have company, especially as [illegible] of former times. He sent for Mr. Latty, the factor of the fort, to have a social drink. After a few drinks the [illegible] a loss of the American right to the country, and British [illegible] some offensive things to Latty. It is hardly fair to say the hospitable colonel would insult his guest, it would be more proper to charge it to the effect of the Blue Ruin. Mr. Latty left the party and returned home, a little the worse for Blue Ruin. McClure took another glass, which was one too many, considering the nature of the liquor, for it deprived him of his reason altogether, but did not affect his physical powers. He imagined himself to be an officer of the government in command of a squad of soldiers, and under command to take Fort Astoria. He equipped himself with rifle and pouch and went forth, giving command and acting on the fort; going through the exercise of loading, advance! halt! take aim! fire! He proceeded in this way until his bullets began to patter against Latty's house, when a servant man of Latty's took alarm, ran in and aroused Latty from the lethargy caused by Blue Ruin. He went out and found the colonel in his yard in the act of loading his gun. Supposing it to be only fun he bared his breast to the colonel for a target. The colonel ordered, make ready! take aim! fire! suiting the action to the order, but the gun missed fire. He did not seem to notice it and proceeded to load again, Latty still offering his breast for a target thinking it all play. The next time the gun fired, one of the balls went through his sleeve, scratching his arm. It was no longer fun for Latty; he armed himself with a heavy cutlass in an iron scabbard and went forth to battle. The colonel was in the act of reloading his gun when Latty struck him on the head with the sword, knocking him down, then pounding him until he was so used up that he lay still. The Englishman's blood was up, and he dragged the colonel to a cliff near by that is twelve or fourteen feet perpendicular and threw him over on the broken rocks below.

Blue Ruin must have been the elixir of life, or he never would have survived. It was long before he finally recovered. Seeing the evil effect of Blue Ruin, I never imbibed. W. H. RECTOR.

ENTIRE CHANGE.

Having just completed marking our goods at a
GREAT REDUCTION.
We are now prepared to offer our entire stock, which is complete in all its departments, at
SAN FRANCISCO'S LOWEST PRICES.
Why we have made this grand change is
1st. We are disposing of our retail business in San Francisco to make Portland our headquarters.
2d. Nearly all the desirable goods have been shipped up here to be sold.
3d. We have better facilities this year than ever before.
4th. We mean to lead the trade in our line, if the LOWEST prices for the BEST goods will bring it.

REMEMBER,
It is a pleasure, and not trouble, to show goods, when our prices invite opposition, but defy competition.

IN OUR
GLASSWARE DEPARTMENT
We have really done wonders, having reduced the entire line 50 per cent. This is no humbug, but come and be convinced. We are to-day giving more Glassware for one dollar than any other house in town for two dollars.

Having an extraordinary large stock in the above line, we feel justified in saying that we can satisfy the poor and rich, having cheap, medium and the very best Glassware made.

FOR OUR
CROCKERY DEPARTMENT
We can only repeat the above facts.

FRENCH CHINA.
We have just received, direct from France, 25 casks of that celebrated L. Haviland & Co. ELITE CHINA, the very best goods ever imported to this country, which we offer at a great reduction from former quotations.

We have entered into a large contract with the leading
BABY CARRIAGE FACTORY
East, which enables us to give a better carriage for the money than any other house on the coast, being of our own and direct importation.

OUR CUTLERY
Has been greatly reduced. We carry none but the BEST,
J. RUSSELL & CO'S GREEN RIVER CUTLERY.

LAMPS AND CHANDELIERS
We have marked down full one-third.

ALL OUR SILVERWARE AT A GREAT REDUCTION.

Desirous of LEADING the TRADE in our various branches, we have firmly concluded on Large Sales and Small Profits. A call will convince all that only FACTS are stated, and a cordial invitation is now extended to the public of Portland and vicinity to inspect our goods after the great change in prices.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 19, 1881.

DOMESTIC FISHES.

At the first glance the idea of stocking the waters of Oregon and Washington Territory with fishes for food seems a needless expense to our people especially when we recall the fact that the Australian continent is wholly dependent upon the Columbia fisheries for its supply of salmon. But a close investigation reveals a great deal more merit in the proposition than first appears on the surface.

The taking of trout by hook and line goes on in Oregon waters at all seasons of the year, regardless of spawning. In August when the black mouthed mountain trout, found in the tributary lakes of the John Day and DesChutes is fat and toothsome, the tide-water trout of the Cowlitz and Clackamas is spent and flabby; yet camping parties go out to shoot grouse and pick berries and they slaughter the spawning trout just the same as in May when they are plump and sweet. Hence diminution of the supply of these fish is only a question of time; and the introduction of other food fishes into our waters is by no means a premature movement.

The red and gold spotted trout of the Atlantic waters is a handsomer fish than the brook trout of Eastern Oregon; and when you say that you say all. He is not any gamier fish nor does he mature as rapidly. He does not rise more readily at the fly nor give any more vigorous battle to the angler when hooked; neither are we ready to admit that he titillates the palate any more when brought to the table. To Captain J. C. Ainsworth we are indebted for the stocking of several streams in Pierce county with these beautiful fish; but it will be twenty years before he will assure a general habitation of the Oregon streams.

The trout offered for sale in our markets and caught in most of the streams below Eugene City is a fish closely allied to the estuary trout of the gulf tributaries, being without red spots and having pink flesh, which has given rise to the supposition that they were young salmon. These trout I have taken at Muckilteo and Esquimalt, both salt water landings; and I have also caught them at Pass Christian, Carrolton and Mobile by baiting with a prawn or shedder crab. Hence my inference is that they are for at least half the year a salt water fish.

The mountain trout taken in Grant and Baker counties never exceeds two pounds weight and will barely average seven inches in length. His skin is a dark olive with jet spots and his flesh is white as snow. He bites savagely at the fly, and is the gamest of all game fish, jumping at least two feet into the air in his frantic efforts to free himself from the barbed hook. The structure of the head, the black lining of the mouth and the square tail, all indicate him to be totally dissimilar from the estuary trout of the coast waters.

Efforts have been made to introduce the carp of Europe into the Oregon streams, by Capt. Harlow and others, but they are a still water fish and prefer ponds to brooks. They are very prolific and live to a great age; but they are not a proper compensation for the prospective loss of our trout. Their flesh is superior to that of the chub found in the Pierce county lakes, as well as to that of the "white fish" caught in the crystal waters of the Malheur and Grand Ronde. But they are available rather than choice fish, and will not yield any great revenue till after the trout becomes extirpated from our waters.

The most desirable fish that I could recommend would be the black bass of Lake George and the striped bass of the Atlantic waters. The former is a pond fish but the ponds must be spring-fed or he will "weaken to exist," as they say in Arkansas. He is a rich brown in color, very rich in taste, fully equal to a brook trout in his rush for the bait and even more dangerous to the security of rod and line when hooked. Nearly three years ago I remitted some money to a man in Livermore, Cal. for ten of these fish, then four inches long, as he said. How long they are now I cannot say, as I never saw either the fish or my ten dollar piece since sending the money. But I would like to see them stocked into spring-fed ponds in Washington and Yamhill counties, fully believing they would yield as great a revenue to their cultivator as twice the number of acres planted in wheat and potatoes.

The striped bass was first planted in the bay of San Francisco about three years ago, and when I was in that city in January an angler caught one off Saucelito which was of about three-fourths of a pound in weight. He sold the fish for $5 to a wealthy naturalist of that city, and an hour later was told by Hon. B. B. Redding, fish commissioner, that he would gladly have paid him $20 for the fish.

This striped bass is the gamest of all big fish, for he frequently attains sixty pounds in weight. The largest of these are taken in the spring and early summer off Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, where portions of the shore are rented as "stands" to clubs of rich men residing in Boston and Worcester. Like the salmon, he goes into the rivers to spawn; but, unlike him, he contents himself with remaining in the brackish currents about the river mouth. The Chesapeake estuaries are famous for the November bass-fishing, as well as the James and Potomac. This was what old Daniel Webster adored. He had his trout brooks about Marshfield in May, and October found his punt anchored off Colchester.

The only time I ever saw this remarkable man was in 1850, on the Passaic river, a short distance above Newark, where I then resided with my parents. It was late in August, and I had gone out with Burr Porter to have a day's bass fishing. Hiring a Whitehall boat from Reuben Edwards, we pulled up abreast "The Cedars" and began to fish. Presently out came the owner of the property—Henry Williams Herbert, better known as "Frank Forrester"—and got into his boat, accompanied by a stout old man dressed in a blue coat, yellow nankeen pants and vest, and wearing a broad-brimmed straw hat, dyed a dark slate color. They fished all the morning within about sixty yards from us, and caught less fish than we did in point of numbers. At last the old man hooked a fourteen-pounder and, after a sharp fight, landed him in triumph.

"I wonder who that old gentleman is? He seems to be a master of the business."

"Don't you know who that is? That is Mr. Webster, the secretary of state."

I was thunderstruck, and sat there all the day—staring at "the godlike," totally neglecting the sport, while Porter asked me if I was in a trance.

If they have striped bass in California, they will soon have them to sell to fish domesticators in other localities. My own belief is that as soon as the young fry of these valuable fish can be obtained, they should be placed in the bay of Yaquina, and either in Gray's harbor or Shoalwater bay. From these points, as the fish increased in numbers, they would distribute themselves in the mouths of all the streams along the coast. The Coquille river would be preferable to all others as a breeding ground for these splendid fish, but for one obstacle. I allude to the hordes of sea-lions at the mouth of that river, which consume more fish in one day than is required to feed the entire population of Portland. But for that, the Coquille would be the finest of all Pacific rivers for cultivation of striped bass.

The bass feeds on shrimps, young crabs and prawns, all of which are to be found between the California boundary and the British line at Semiahmoo. Hence it is no vague prediction that twenty-pounders will be caught from off Tillamook Head and in Baker's bay before twenty more years have passed over our heads. But by that time where will I be? Yet, it would be but a sorry world if no one in it looked forward to any higher aim than mere self-gratification. We must sometimes sow for others to reap.

CORINTHIAN.

NEW PROCESS IN MILLING.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

All the Minnesota millers are now fighting the old-fashioned flour barrels. They say it is a relic of barbarism. They desire to substitute the cotton sack in its place. Cotton sacks holding a half barrel of flour are worth ten cents apiece. Flour barrels are worth forty-five cents each. All the flour shipped to Glasgow and Rotterdam goes in cotton sacks. These sacks are worth as much there as here. The millers maintain that flour does not sift through a good cotton bag as much as it sifts through a barrel. The bags of flour were shipped to Glasgow, returned to Minneapolis, and sent again to Glasgow. When weighed they had actually gained in weight. Six hundred barrels of flour put up in bags and shipped to Glasgow will gain in weight 1,800 pounds. When New York flour dealers begin to handle flour in half-barrel sacks, the people will save twenty-five cents on a barrel and have their good sacks left.

The old millstones are taken out and new steel rollers are substituted in their places. The wheat passes through five sets of rollers, each set closer than the former. These rollers are thirty inches long and ten inches in diameter. After passing between each set of rollers it is "bolted" or sifted through the cloth. The last rollers are hardly anything but wheat hulls and the waxy germs which do not crack up, but smash together. So flour is now cracked and disintegrated without grinding. The first rollers crack the kernels of wheat into say six pieces. The starchy substance which rattles out drops through the cloth sieves or bolting cloths. These six pieces are broken between the next rollers into thirty-six pieces. Then the white starch crumbs are sifted out again, and the thirty-six pieces are passed between still tighter rollers, which crack them into 216 pieces; another set of rollers multiply each of these particles into six more, making them aggregate 1,296. Another set of rollers screwed together with tremendous pressure makes 7,776 pieces. The scientific miller says a grain of wheat is finally cracked into 7,776 pieces without being ground at all. This is the Hungarian process. The germ of a kernel of wheat is a waxy substance, not fit to eat. Between stones this germ grinds into the flour and damages it. By the new process of the Hungarian rollers this germ is flattened out, and it is sifted out. However, it is finally ground up with the debris, on stones, to make the low grade of flour, which we sell in Rotterdam for $2 50 per barrel.

The Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 18.—The wool market during the past few days, became completely demoralized and prices declined with a very unsettled market at the close. Manufacturers have continued indifferent about supplies of wool, continuing their purchases to their immediate wants from week to week, so that it has led to a great pressure to sell on the part of holders, and prices in consequence have eased off from 2@3c ⅌ lb for fine fleeces and from 1@2c ⅌ lb on other kinds. Sales of the week have been 21,000,000 lbs, and include Ohio and Pennsylvania fleeces at 40@45c for X, XX and XXX, and from 40@42½c, now nominal quotations, for X and XX. Michigan and Wisconsin fleeces have been selling at 45@48c and dull at these prices. Combing and delaine has been sold at 45@46c for fine delaine and 46@48c for fine and medium combing. A lot of 15,000 lbs of Kentucky combing sold at 32c, a decline from recent prices. There have been large transactions in Indiana, Missouri and Kentucky combing in neighboring markets at an average of 30c in unwashed fleeces. There have been sales of 24,000 lbs at various prices as to quality and 275,000 lbs of fall California at 19@22c. Pulled wools have been selling quite freely at low prices, some 375,000 lbs having been taken at 30@35c for low and choice supers, and fancy lots of eastern and Maine at 48@50c. In foreign wool nothing of any consequence has been done, sales comprising a few small lots of Cape, Australian and Montevideo at prices indicating no material change.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 17.—There is no visible improvement in the freight market via Cape Horn, although at the same time ships are doing very fair business. The David Crockett will probably finish up to-morrow, while the El Capitan will in about a week. Both these vessels, it should be remarked, have considerable quantity of railroad iron and material and lumber on boards in addition to a quantity of freight that was contracted for some time since and which is now being hurried forward. Rates remain unchanged, but are firm. Tonnage is in good supply. The ships Manuel Llaguno, 1743 tons and St. Nicholas, 1798 tons, have both taken loads at this port. The ship Sterling, chartered to load a cargo of coal at Baltimore has arrived at that port.

More Eggs.

[From the National Agriculturist.]

The great reason why we have no more eggs in the winter is that the hens have no more comfortable quarters nor requisite food. The hen is a tender animal. She is an exotic in this cold climate, and wants a warm bedroom and comfortable nursery. If we compel her to sleep on a fence or in a tree and lay her eggs where the snow can sift upon them and the frost crack them, she will lay very few. Under such circumstances she has very little energy in this direction, and knows too much to waste what little she has. Comfort is the one condition of egg production, and food the great forerunner. In summer, the hens, if allowed the free run of the farm, can scratch for a living and pick up seeds, grubs and perfect insects enough to supply all demands for the raw material from which the eggs are manufactured. In winter this supply fails and the eggs of course fail. An egg is essentially animal food; in fact, it contains the animal, the chick. Hence it requires for its manufacture in winter some substitute for the insects which the hens eat in summer. Comfortable quarters and a mixed animal and vegetable diet are therefore the great secrets in egg production in winter. The animal food is best furnished in the form of animal meal. This is made at our large abattoirs in great quantities by steaming the bones and refuse parts of the animal, and then drying and grinding them. This meal costs but little more than cornmeal, and a quart of it with three or four quarts of cornmeal and wheat bran will furnish hens just the raw material for making eggs. We have tried it and know. Some recommend adding to this mash a little red pepper. And this is a good stimulant, but we have not found it necessary.

TROPIC FRUIT LAXATIVE

Prepared from tropical fruits and plants.

Is thorough in its Medicinal Action, and yet so agreeable to the taste that patrons often disregard our injunction to divide the lozenge into parts (say two doses) to meet their respective cases. At the outset it is especially essential to observe the directions closely till one becomes accustomed to its use—when mild action and the most satisfactory results are sure to follow.

Ladies and children, and those who dislike taking pills and nauseous medicines to secure cathartic action, are especially pleased with this agreeable substitute.

Try it once, and you will esteem it highly as a safe, pleasant, and effective remedy.

Packed in bronzed tin boxes only.

Price, 25 cents.
Large boxes, 60 cents.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Remedy for Hard Times.

Stop spending so much on fine clothes, rich food and style. Buy good, healthy food, cheaper and better clothing; get more real and substantial things of life every way, and especially stop the foolish habit of running after expensive and quack doctors or using so much of the vile humbug medicine that does you only harm, and makes the proprietors rich, but put your trust in the greatest of all simple, pure remedies, Hop Bitters, that cures always at a trifling cost, and you will see better times and good health. Try it once. Read of it in another column.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician to them, from a sense of modesty, and some times from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.
